

Girl Scouts Give Back: Mask Making

How to Donate Face Masks

Because of your troop, more people in your community can stay safe and healthy during these trying times—thank you for leading the charge!

We are proud to partner with Feeding America to distribute masks to food bank staff and volunteers as well as to families currently seeking food assistance. To donate your masks to a Feeding America food bank, please:

- Visit Feeding America's webpage and use your troop's zip code to find your local Feeding America food bank.
- Call your food bank to make a plan for donating your masks: How and when will you drop your troop's masks off? Can you mail them? Does your troop prefer to donate them to staff and volunteers or to families served by the food bank?
- Deliver or mail your masks to your local food bank, enclosing this note.
- If you choose to post about your troop's donation on social media, tag @girlscouts, your local council, @FeedingAmerica, and your local food bank. Use #GirlScoutsGiveBack to inspire other troops to do the same!

Looking to keep the good going? If your troop chooses to donate masks to health facilities, you can find local organizations in need by using the Deaconess list. Your troop may also choose to donate masks to community businesses, like grocery stores, or other community services organizations, like shelters.
